Report

Warrnambool, Wednesday

Interest has been revived in the story of the wreck of the 17th century Dutch or Spanish exploring ship near Warrnambool. The town clerk has secured information of the bearings of the position of the ship as seen in the early days on the beach. Probably an attempt will be made to dig out this interesting historical relic. Early records state that the ship was of the high stern type of the 16th and 17th centuries.
